Atty Rodriguez, Eileen (Pro Per – Mother – Objector)

Case No. 11CEPR01017

Petition for Appointment of Guardian of the Person (Prob. C. 1510)

SUMMARY (Continued):

The parents' Objection states Alyssa been extremely rebellious over the past year and describes her behavior as "atrocious" toward parents and siblings. They recently learned she has been drinking, smoking marijuana and is sexually active. She has run away twice in the past two months. Objectors state the first time she ran away was because she was put on restriction for calling her mother a "bitch." Mother states she "grabbed her face" and said "Do not talk to me like that." Alyssa did not return from school the next day, and police could not locate her. Apparently the next day she reported abuse to the school, to Petitioner, and to multiple family members, and also made accusations that the parents were doing drugs, etc.

Objectors state Petitioner "rewarded this behavior" by taking Alyssa shopping for clothes. When she returned home, Mother took the clothes away and told her she could have them back when she learned how to respect her parents and her family, bring up her grades and be responsible. Petitioner then called and threatened Mother, told her she was going to "kick my ass," etc, and threatened to call Mother's work and say she does drugs. Mother states she has already done this, and calls so much that she's been told she will lose her job. Objectors state Father was demoted because she called his work so many times, and is currently on probation pending a drug test.

Objectors state Petitioner has "literally turned our whole lives upside down. " Objectors describe that Alyssa is a talented softball player and was being scouted by colleges up until the past couple of months. Alyssa recently lied and said she had a 3.0 GPA when it was really 1.8.

Objectors describe another incident where Alyssa was responsible for dressing her brother for school, which is normal (she is responsible for him for about 30 minutes each morning); however, after she was put on "restriction" for lying about the GPA, she dressed him in shorts and no jacket, even when Mother had clothes picked out for him.

Objectors state they are good parents and the accusations of abuse and drug use are false. Living with Petitioner is not the best place for Alyssa. Allowing her to be placed there sends the message that it is ok to run away because you do not want to follow rules.

Objectors also provide letters from family friends in support, and letters from both parents' employers, and negative drug test results (prompted by Petitioner's accusations).
